The cost components will use EMS functions at a granular enough level to adequately reflect true system costs regardless of EMS system design.

What are EMS costs?

According to the Institutes of Medicine, "EMS costs include the direct costs of each emergency response, as well as the readiness costs associated with maintaining the capability to respond quickly, 24-hours a day, 7-days a week."

Which EMS agencies are included in the EMS framework?

This framework is intended to estimate the cost of the entire EMS system and, as such, may require consideration of 1 or more of the various types of agencies that are part of a system (eg, fire departments, police departments, first-tier EMS agencies, second-tier EMS agencies).

Does the EMS system pay for ambulance services?

The EMS system, especially the ambulance service function, relies heavily on reimbursements from third party payers and currently ambulance services must provide patient transportation in order to be reimbursed for services.

What is an EMS system?

A consensus definition of EMS remains elusive. The current definition of EMS System includes all aspects of emergency care from dispatch services through the 911 response to hospitals and rehabilitation services (ems.gov). There is no clear term specifically identifying "EMS" provided by EMS personnel in the field outside of a facility setting.

Why do EMS agencies have a different service delivery model?

Due to the unique nature of the service delivery model, EMS agencies provide an increasing number of responses where no reimbursement is available. For example, EMS is called to an emergency scene by law enforcement to assess a patient at a motor vehicle accident at significant cost.
